

Sharing our Success Stories

What happened?

Annie is a sixth grader with complex needs at a local middle school. Last summer she attended a two-week overnight camp for the first time. Annie went with a couple of her friends and met many more while she was there. She received an award for “Best Personality” at the talent show on the final night of camp.

Why is this a “success story?”

Annie has never been to camp before and she had a great experience because of what the camp offered and the support she received from the counselors and other campers. She plans to return again this summer.
